IVI Grants Development Website

The IVI Development Office is a central institute office for grants solicitation and development from bilateral donors, private professional foundations, philanthropic organizations, etc. Part of the Unit of Communications and Development, the Office provides institutional information, prospect research, cultivation, coordination, project development assistance to researchers, administrators and division directors in their work with prospective grantors. For IVI scientists and administrators, the Office helps identify, analyze and approach potential funding sources, plan and coordinate solicitations, assist in inquiries and application guidelines, gather organizational materials, and obtain institutional signatures.

Other services provided by the Office include serving as a clearinghouse for institutional facts for use in proposal, prospect analytics and most Request of Proposals from IVI funding prospects, producing
